This special edition catalogue focuses on the unique designs of David and Corin Mellor and what makes them exceptional in this world of so much unimaginative, mass-produced design. The comprehensive David Mellor collection of thousands of fine kitchenware and tableware products can still be found on our website and in the David Mellor shops.

Founded in 1953 by influential designer David Mellor, Royal Designer for Industry, the company is built on an inheritance of traditional metalworking skills and design excellence. We have always combined the best of historic craftsmanship with the latest in evolving new technologies. Current Creative Director Corin Mellor remains committed to these principles.

Whilst we continue to make cutlery in our own purpose-built factory, we also search out other manufacturers who are similarly experts in their fields. By working closely with these specialist makers Corin and the in-house design team have been able to expand our collection of exclusive designs beyond our own small-scale manufacturing capacity. This approach of drawing on our expertise in design, manufacturing and retail has allowed the David Mellor collection to continually evolve.

‘I nominate him as Britain’s most serious, modest and greatest post-war product designer.’ Terence Conran
Born in Sheffield and originally trained as a silversmith, David Mellor always specialised in metalwork. He is particularly famous for his cutlery which has won numerous design awards and is in many international collections. Ours is a unique collection of modern cutlery designed by David and Corin Mellor and it enjoys a well-deserved reputation for its purity of design and quality of manufacture.

David Mellor cutlery is still made in our purpose-designed modern factory set discreetly in the natural beauty of the Peak District National Park. The Round Building itself, designed by Sir Michael Hopkins, has won numerous architectural awards and been described as a masterpiece of modern architecture.

Our cutlery is still made by a small specialist team of highly skilled craftsmen, some of whom have worked for decades with the company, building up an exceptional expertise in metalwork. Though the factory is technologically advanced, a high degree of hand finishing is employed to give David Mellor cutlery its perfectionist quality.

‘Having trained as a silversmith, I tend to think of myself primarily as a maker… My approach to design is still, to some extent, that of a craftsman, in my involvement in directing all the detail and in making a design concept work from end to end.’ David Mellor

‘Every piece is a balance between form and function. I like to think that we make cutlery which is like jewellery for eating with.’ Corin Mellor

David Mellor’s iconic ‘Pride’ cutlery was designed in 1953 while Mellor was still a student at the Royal College of Art and has been in continuous production ever since. It was included in the very first Design Centre Awards in 1957 and is on display in numerous collections around the world as a prime example of 20th century Modernist design. It remains one of our most popular ranges.

Now an acknowledged modern classic, gently tapered hollow knife handles, delicate curves and refined proportions give ‘Pride’ its beauty and understated elegance. The simplicity of form and flawless mirror polished finish create a supremely sophisticated table setting, and as a consequence, it is used in many prestige restaurants and hotels around the world.

Originally only made in silver plate, ‘Pride’ is now also available in stainless steel and in sterling silver. Knife blades are made from high carbon stainless steel for a superior cutting edge. Knife handles are available in metal, black or ivory acetal resin.

Having been brought up in Sheffield with its wonderful legacy of knife making it was perhaps inevitable that David and Corin Mellor both shared a profound interest in kitchen knife design. David designed several ranges during his career and his son Corin has continued this tradition, designing three comprehensive ranges of kitchen knives for the company over a ten-year period.

Superb in quality and beautiful to use, all David Mellor knives share the same design properties and employ the very latest innovative manufacturing techniques. The high carbon stainless steel blades are ice-hardened to minus 80°C. This stabilises the metallurgical structure of the steel creating a hard and durable cutting edge. With excellent balance and grip, and a razor-sharp cutting edge, these are amongst the world’s finest knives.
Rosewood kitchen knives

Our top-of-the-range knives are designed by Corin Mellor and have been introduced to our range after three years’ development. The sinuously curving handles are made in Indian rosewood, the traditional material favoured by culinary experts. They are carefully hand finished and wonderful to use. The knife blades exploit the latest techniques in steel casting to arrive at the beautifully curved bolster. They are precision ground and glazed to give a specially bright finish. Combining ground-breaking manufacturing techniques with the historic David Mellor expertise in metalwork has resulted in a design of supreme function and beauty. Truly our most luxurious knives to date.

‘A good kitchen knife is the most useful tool in any kitchen and, if maintained properly, it should last decades.’ Corin Mellor

New stainless steel tableware Our elegant new stainless steel tableware range has an unmistakably purist design quality. Drawing on the company’s fine tradition of metalwork design, these tea pots, cafetières, sugar pots, creamers, toast racks and trays are superbly made in stainless steel with a high polish finish.

Designed by Corin Mellor, this new stainless steel tableware range began with the cafetières but has recently been expanded to become a comprehensive tableware collection. It took almost ten years’ of painstaking research to find a manufacturer who could produce these designs to the required quality. Making the most of his inherited design expertise in stainless steel, Corin Mellor’s distinctive mastery of metalwork design is evident in the superb balance, durability, and purity of line. The distinctive handles and perfectionist finish give this range its special visual appeal.

Prototypes in development on Corin Mellor’s workbench in The Round building.
Cast iron  David Mellor’s cast iron candleholders were originally designed in 1969, the year our shop in Sloane Square first opened. We recently located an iron foundry with the traditional skills to make these Swinging Sixties design classics.

The striking candelabrum by Corin Mellor is a recent addition to his father’s much-admired cast iron range. Five-light, with pivoting arms which form alternative configurations, each candelabrum is stamped David Mellor on the underside of one arm and makes a magnificent centrepiece for any table setting.

Round Candleholders
The matt black bowls have removable ridged inserts and are manufactured in two versions, low and tall. Low candleholder is supplied in a gift box. Candles, imported from Finland in a lovely range of solid colours, supplied separately.

- Low Candleholder
  16.5 x 4cm 4741014 £35.00
- Tall Candleholder
  16.5cm x 12cm 4741022 £85.00

Serpentine Candleholders
3-light and 5-light, designed to be used singly or assembled in different permutations to form a spectacular table setting. Made in matt black and bright red. Underside of each candleholder is stamped 1972, the year of its design. Tall ivory coloured church candles supplied separately.

- 5-light Candleholder

- Ivory Church Candle

David Mellor ceramics Our tableware ranges have all been expertly developed over the last decade to complement the famous David Mellor cutlery perfectly. Corin Mellor and the in-house design team have worked closely with expert ceramicists to create timeless ranges of real quality that are ideally suited to today’s dining styles.

Fine bone china
Bone china, with its unique combination of translucence and strength, due to the 50% of bone ash in the body, was the obvious first choice of material for pure white tableware of lasting quality. Corin Mellor’s design has a beautiful modernity, appealing to those who enjoy entertaining. Each piece is back-stamped David Mellor in a subtle shade of grey.

‘Deco’ fine bone china
More than a decade after the classic white range was launched, ‘Deco’, a decorated range of fine bone china, was added to bring further interest to the table. Called ‘Deco’ in a nod to the art-deco of the 1930s that inspired it, the new pattern perfectly complements the existing range. The simple shapes and superb material are identical to the original, but the elegance is now set off by the addition of fine silver-grey radiating lines on the rimmed items. The delicate and restrained decoration means these items can be easily combined with the original pieces.

Stoneware
Designed to suit today’s informal eating, our versatile range of stoneware, immaculately detailed and hand finished, has a beautifully natural feel. Its special visual quality lies in the subtle contrast between the finely textured unglazed stoneware and the smooth gloss glaze. Each piece is back-stamped David Mellor. Our stoneware collection is attractive everyday pottery with the distinctive understated Mellor elegance.

David Mellor glassware Our distinctive ranges have all been designed by Corin Mellor and the in-house design team and are made exclusively for us by expert producers. The company’s glassware is all individually hand blown in lead-free crystal by highly-skilled craftspeople, employing a high degree of hand finishing in its production. Because of our own long history as manufacturers as well as retailers, Corin Mellor and the design team are able to draw on unique resources of technical knowledge to aid in the creation of these ranges. The success of our glassware designs is testament to the effectiveness of this approach, bringing the characteristic Mellor design ethos to tableware products beyond cutlery for which the company is most famous.
